RESPONDENT.

----- X
Upon the aforementioned papers and after oral argument on January 25, 2024, pursuant to CPLR § 2213, Plaintiff’s Order to Show Cause (“OSC”) seeking a Stay of the Damages Trial and to Compel Defendants to Give an Ordered Accounting, is as follows:

Plaintiff’s OSC is DENIED. Plaintiff sought a temporary stay of this damages trial “until at least seven calendar days after Defendants Eugene Khavinson, Mikhail Kremerman, and Vyacheslav Faybyshev, each, submit an accounting for the transactions of 290 13th Street LLC.”¹ During oral argument, Defendants opposed Plaintiff’s OSC.

Plaintiff’s OSC was signed on January 25, 2024, for arguments to be heard the same date. The reasons for denying this OSC are set forth in the January 25, 2024 and January 29, 2024 transcripts of the proceedings, a copy of each transcript was so ordered and must be presented by the movant upon any appeal taken.

This constitutes the Order of this Court.
